Cindy Knafel balances work, home and family commitments which is why 3 years passed between her annual mammograms.

Two lumps were detected in Cindy’s breast that were diagnosed as cancer. “When learning that you have breast cancer, you’re immediately in a fog and unclear as to what step to take next,” Cindy said. She researched regional cancer centers and found that the KCH Cancer Care Center provided the expertise she needed.

“My team approach to beating cancer included my faith, family physician, radiologists, cancer specialists, surgeons, my nurses and support staff. Having them in one place for one-on-one immediate care was critical,” Cindy said.
